

About MichaelMinella.com

Welcome to MichaelMinella.com, your home for learning about quality software development. Although this is my corner of cyberspace, this is your forum. This site will only get better with feedback from you. What do you want to hear about? What challenges are you facing in your development? We all are aware of areas where the software development cycle can be improved. Together we can come up with solutions that will take your development to the next level. Make no excuses and demand quality.